CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEETING

A Large Turnout Last Night, Which Was Made Up Principally of Candidates. Numerous Candidates are Out for School Board.

The Republican Central committee, in conjunction with the candidates, met at city hall last night. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Nellis at 7:45. A motion was made to have the candidates appoint two inspectors for each ward, on nomination day, and after some talk the candidates left the room to select inspectors, leaving the council chamber looking as though a cyclone had struck it, as every man in the house, with the exception of the reporters, one spectator, and two or three of the Central committee, were candidates. The Central committee then went into executive session, and the longest list of names of people who were seeking office that has appeared at the Republican nomination for years, was prepared. Here is the complete ticket as filed with the Central committee last night:

The candidates then reported the list of inspectors they had chosen, and they are as follows:

A NUMBER OF CASES.

A Saloonist From This City Is Heavily Fined for Selling to Habituals.

Special to the News Review.

LISBON, March 12.—The Walter and Serris Coal company of West Virginia was sued this morning by John B. Kendig, who wishes to recover a judgment for $618. Last May the plaintiff and defendant had a settlement of accounts, and this amount was found to be due Kendig, which the defendants agreed to pay. They have failed to do so and the plaintiff has reason to believe that the Washingtonville Mining company have property in their possession belonging to the defendant and which he can recover by attachment.

Harry C. Post began proceedings this morning against John and Florence Post, asking for a partition of lot No. 1 in Philip Evans' addition to Salem. Each party claims equality as heirs of the late Thomas C. Post.

The criminal assault case against Jesse Myers, of Knox township, was given to the jury late yesterday afternoon, and in a short time a verdict of assault and battery was returned. He was arraigned for sentence before Judge Smith this morning and received five months in the Cleveland workhouse, and was ordered to pay the costs of the case.

George Hancock, an East Liverpool saloonkeeper, was arraigned on two charges of having sold liquor to habituals. He was fined $70 and costs, amounting in all to $97.

An application was filed last week by Henry Kugle, of Columbiana, for the appointment of a receiver for the hardware firm of Kugle & Dalzell. The court this morning appointed William Mellinger, who was required to give a $3,000 bond.

Judge Taylor, of Canton, will hold court in this county on the week beginning March 23. The February term of court expires after this week.

Seventh assignment of cases made for Judge Taylor begins Tuesday, March 24—Euphemia Putnam versus John Lythe & Son, Wednesday.

Catherine Woodward versus Ralph Woodward; Wellsville Fair association versus William Craig; Mary M. Conant versus Burgess M. Allison; J. R. Torrell versus W. S. Blackburn & Son, Thursday—John R. Martin versus Jessie Kepner; commissioner of Columbiana county versus Albert L. Johnson and others; the Fire Clay company versus John E. Gamble and others; Hannah Hannahan versus the East Liverpool and Wellsville street car company, Friday—Wellsville Fair association versus John S. Smith and others; Stratton, Hinkle & Stratton versus R. M. Freshwater; Charlotte Mount versus James B. Mount.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Manager of the Football Club Making Dates.

Letters have been received by A. W. Stevenson, manager of the Eclipse football team of this city, from Marietta college, of Marietta; Ohio State university, of Columbus, and Adelbert college, of Cleveland, all wanting to meet the Eclipse team in their respective cities the coming season, and a letter was also received from W. B. Cutwright, manager of University of West Virginia, of Morgantown, wanting to arrange a game in Pittsburgh. Numerous clubs have written, wanting to come here, and it is probable that by the first of May the Eclipse schedule will be completed. With the modification of the rules this year, football will be a much more scientific game than heretofore, as a greater part of the rough play has been stricken out. Efforts are also being made to secure the services of a good coach, and the outlook is bright for a successful football club in this city the coming year.

The manager of the Young Men's Christian association club has received a letter from Youngstown, asking for two games with the club here on Decoration day, but as the team here has not yet organized, nothing has been done in the matter.

TO THE HOSPITAL.

John Moneygould Will Be Sent There Next Week.

John Moneygould, formerly a resident of this city, but now living near Fairview, W. Va., will be sent to the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, next week, to have an operation performed. The gentleman has been confined to the house for almost a year past, from an injury received while engaged in training horses for the race track, by one of the animals stepping on his foot. Nothing was thought of the injury at the time, but it finally laid him up so that he was unable to walk. His many friends hope that the operation will prove successful and that Moneygould will again be able to be around in a short time.

Case Postponed.

The case of Theodore Bradshaw against Augustus Armstrong for $130, amount claimed due on a promissory note and back rent, was to have been tried in Squire Morley's court today, but owing to the inability of the defendant to appear, the case was postponed for 40 days.

HIS TIMEPIECE STOLEN

Last December, but the Thief Was Captured Yesterday.

THE CHARGE IS PETTY LARCENY

Frank Seenor, of West Virginia, Stole a Watch from Harry Lowrie, and Pawns It—Placed Under a $200 Bond, Which He is Unable to Get.

Sometime last December a watch was stolen from Harry Lowrie, who is employed at Golding's flint mill. The watch was taken from the young man's coat pocket while he was at work, and was not missed until he was ready to go home and started to put his coat on, when the loss was discovered. No clue was had by him as to who the thief was, but he immediately notified the police authorities, and since then they have kept a close lookout, but their efforts availed them naught until a few days ago, when Marshal Wyman discovered the watch in the hands of a young man in this city. Lowrie was sent for and identified the watch as his property. The young man stated that the watch had been pawned to him by Frank Seenor, a resident of West Virginia. Seenor had been suspected ever since the theft occurred, but no positive evidence was secured up to this time. A warrant was made out for his arrest and yesterday when he came to town he was arrested by Marshal Wyman and taken before the mayor. When arraigned, Seenor pled not guilty to the charge and asked if he could go. The mayor told him that he would have to give $200 bond to get out, the watch being valued at from $15 to $20, making the charge nothing but petty larceny. When told this, Seenor broke down and stated that he didn't know where he would get the bond and confessed to being guilty to the charge. Seenor is suspected of stealing various other articles, as many things have been missed from the flint mill. Up to last July, Seenor was employed at the flint mill, but since then has been residing in West Virginia. He is in jail today, being unable to secure the bond. The time for a hearing has not yet been set.

CONDUCTING AN INVESTIGATION.

A Number of Patriotic Orders of Wheeling Inquire into the Action of the Board.

That the board of education have stirred up the patriotic societies, not only of this place but of other cities, by their action in prohibiting the reading of the Bible in the public schools, is evident. Captain Thomas, as the representative of a number of patriotic orders of Wheeling, was in this city yesterday expressly for the purpose of investigating whether or not there was any truth in the report that had come to their ears, that the exclusion of the Bible in the schools had taken place. The gentleman said that the reported action of the board was vigorously denounced by the order that he represented, but before taking any definite action they proposed to inquire into the question, and accordingly he was detailed to visit this city and ascertain the true state of affairs. Captain Thomas returned to Wheeling last night. After a conference with responsible parties he arrived at the conclusion that the reports that had been first heard were not in the least exaggerated. He also took with him a number of copies of the daily papers containing an account of the meetings of the board. The result of the investigation will be presented to the orders at once.

THEY DID READ.

As Usual, That Irresponsible Sheet Is Wrong.

A paper published in this city, states that the Bible has not been read by any of the teachers of late. The NEWS REVIEW has the best of authority for asserting that the reporter on said unreliable sheet is talking through his hat, as a member of the school board is authority in one instance, and a bright girl scholar is even as good authority, and she has been made happy of late by hearing the blessed book read by her teacher. Turn on the light, as there is none so blind as he who will not see. The actual vision of the newsgatherer of the said unreliable sheet, must be patterned after his moral vision—he loves darkness rather than light, and doth not desire to see aught of good.

NEW SIGNALS.

The Street Railway Company Will Soon Put Them On.

Superintendent Andrews has been hard at work lately preparing the new signal system that will be set up and put in operation as soon as the weather moderates. It was the intention to commence the work of placing them in position yesterday, but owing to the inclemency of the weather this was deferred. The system will be established with electric signals similar to those in use on the Beaver Valley and other electric lines. The object of this system is to prevent any possibility of a collision, that otherwise might occur. The signals will be placed at every switch, and will be operated by the motormen who, by simply pulling a lever, can immediately communicate with the next switch, so that the car coming will know whether or not the track is clear to the next switch. Besides facilitating time, the danger of a collision is entirely eliminated.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Views Expressed by the Candidates on the Bible Question.

A NEWS REVIEW reporter interviewed the various candidates for school board this morning, and got their views on the Bible question. E. A. Stevenson, O. C. Vodrey, B. H. Hodgson, Dr. W. T. Norris, Mrs. J. C. Allison and E. J. Owen are in favor of the Bible being read in the public schools by all the teachers, and will make their campaign with this understanding.

W. L. Smith: "Am opposed to the Bible as an opening exercise or text book. It can be used as a reference book."

Mrs. M. E. Calhoun said she didn't desire to be quoted. She must be for or against in this fight.

D. J. Nellis: "Am in favor of Bible reading as it has been for the past 20 years."

Col. John N. Taylor: "I am in favor of the Bible being in the schools, but not as a text book, and object to its compulsory use."

H. W. Smith: "Am in favor of the Bible in the schools, but with creed differences eliminated and in such shape equally compulsory with any other text book."

STOLE THE DINNER.

Someone Walks off With Trustee Beardmore's Dinner.

Joseph Beardmore, one of the trustees, when he went to work at Thompson's pottery yesterday, carefully wrapped his lunch and dinner in a paper and took it with him. Arriving at the plant he laid it down in a corner and went to work. Becoming hungry about 10 o'clock he happened to think of a piece of luscious current cake that was in that bundle and thought he would eat it, but when he went to the place he had left it the package was gone. Mr. Beardmore said he wouldn't have cared so much had the thief but left him a piece of cake, and he thinks it would have been nothing more than right to have returned the napkin.

TRADES COUNCIL

Met Last Night and Listened to Several Addresses.

Trades council met last night, but transacted no business, the evening being spent in listening to addresses by A. H. Clark and President William Ruhe. Mr. Clark's speech on the subject, "Labor," was an able effort, and was listened to with rapt attention by the audience present. He was followed by President William Ruhe, who spoke on the subject of "Immigration and Protective Tariff," in a logical and convincing manner. Mr. Clark then answered some of the questions put by Mr. Ruhe in his speech, and the meeting adjourned, after spending a pleasant as well as instructive evening.

RECEIVED A SHOCK.

A Bridge Employee Picked Up a Live Wire and Was Knocked Down.

Carl McMillan, of Vanport, and an employee of the bridge company, had a rather thrilling experience yesterday afternoon. The cable holding the iron bucket swung around and striking the electric light wire caused it to part. It fell to the ground. McMillan supposing the wire to be insulated rushed forward and picked it up; no sooner had he touched the live wire than he was sent spinning head over heels from the effects of the shock. He soon recovered and says that he does not wish to again go through the same experience.

Another Lie Told.

The rumor has been started that Evangelist Schiverea is to receive $500 for three weeks' work in East Liverpool. The devil must have employed one of his saloon employees to spread this false report. The evangelist receives the voluntary offerings given by the people during the week night services, while the collections on Sunday go to pay incidental expenses, rental of rink, etc.

T. O. Timmons left for Morgantown, W. Va., this morning.

THE LIGHT BURNING

The Snow Flakes Didn't Bar Them Out.

THE PEOPLE ARE IN EARNEST

The Service of Song is Nightly Becoming More of an Attraction—Evangelist Schiverea's Heart Has Been Made Very Glad by Report of Glorious Work Being Accomplished.

The choir made melody last night, while awaiting the coming of Schiverea, Mrs. Ted Brookes presiding at the piano and Miss M. W. Jackman at the organ, while Stoddard's cornet added much to the musical program. At 8:30 Schiverea took charge, with the remark: "Yes, yes, that's very nice for a rehearsal; and now we'll do some singing," and the vast audience 'smiled' at the expense of the choir, the members of which appreciated the joke fully and smiled just as happily as if they were not the victims. Then audience and choir made the old link resound with pleadings that the Lord might be merciful to one and all of the inhabitants of East Liverpool. Short prayer service by Schiverea, pleading very earnestly for the Master's very best blessing. Reverend Whitehead read, as a scripture lesson, the parable of the foolish virgins.

Announcement was then made that there would be no pottery meeting on Thursday, at 12:30, but that a meeting will be held at the East Liverpool pottery on Friday, March 13, at 12:30, with the employees of Vodrey's pottery participating. Grand meeting on Sabbath morning in the rink at 9:30, closing in time for those who desire to go to church to do so. The aim will be, announced through Schiverea, to have a full baptism of the Holy Ghost, and revive church members and Christians, so that they may be better enabled and qualified to do the work of the Master among men.

Reverend O'Meara, rector of St. Stephen's church, then led in prayer, asking blessings on audience and evangelist, and then Schiverea entered on his address, after Weedon rendered a solo, full of pathos and earnest invitation, entitled "He is just the same today," telling of Jesus ever seeking sinners.

"The nineteenth chapter of Luke. Jesus asking Zaccheus to make haste and come down from the tree. Yes, Jesus asked him to make haste, and he is saying the same tonight, men and women, of every condition and rank in life. There are two classes of men and women on earth; one class in favor of God and the other opposed to him. If you are not forgiven and redeemed, you are making haste to reach hell. No person here tonight, who was present last night, has now as good an opportunity for God's forgiveness and mercy as they had last night. The older we grow in sin, the less are our chances for heaven. The great majority of those who accept Jesus as their savior, come to him between the ages of 10 and 25 years. You say that there is no hurry; that you can have religion and forgiveness at any time. I tell you that this is a fallacy of the devil; every sin you commit only makes your heart so much harder—less susceptible to the pleadings of the divine spirit. There is a time when, thank God, you are master of yourself; but, on the pity, there surely comes a time when sin is your absolute master, and you are but a poor slave. At the early age of 22 I abandoned sin and accepted Christ. I thought I could easily serve the Master; that there was no necessity of a battle on my part. I was on deadly, dangerous ground, and for four or five days and nights I had an awful battle with the sins which had so nearly conquered me and destroyed my immortal soul.

"Two warm comrades, professional men, loved one another very dearly. Finally one of them began to neglect his wife and children through the influence of the wine room. The other noted this and remonstrated with his comrade, urging him to be careful and advising him to forsake the wine cup before it was too late. The warned man was insulted and laughed to scorn the idea that he was not master of himself—that he was in any danger. What? He of strong brain and strong will power in danger from the wine cup; not he. His comrade then asked, as a personal favor, that he abstain from the use of wine for a single week, in order to test the matter. At first he demurred, but finally consented, and the test began. The first day was a struggle, but he made it all right. The next morning he wanted what is termed an eye opener, (should be termed an eye shutter) and he wanted it awful bad. The second day he could not eat and the second night he could

A warrant was made out for his arrest and yesterday when he came to town he was arrested by Marshal Wyman and taken before the mayor. When arraigned, Seenor pleaded not guilty to the charge and asked if he could go. The mayor told him that he would have to give $200 bond to get out, the watch being valued at from $15 to $20, making the charge nothing but petty larceny. When told this, Seenor broke down and stated that he didn't know where he would get the bond and confessed to being guilty to the charge. Seenor is suspected of stealing various other articles, as many things have been missed from the flint mill. Up to last July, Seenor was employed at the flint mill, but since then has been residing in West Virginia. He is in jail today, being unable to secure the bond. The time for a hearing has not yet been set.

CONDUCTING AN INVESTIGATION.

A Number of Patriotic Orders of Wheeling Inquire into the Action of the Board.

That the board of education have stirred up the patriotic societies, not only of this place but of other cities, by their action in prohibiting the reading of the Bible in the public schools, is evident. Captain Thomas, as the representative of a number of patriotic orders of Wheeling, was in this city yesterday expressly for the purpose of investigating whether or not there was any truth in the report that had come to their ears, that the exclusion of the Bible in the schools had taken place. The gentleman said that the reported action of the board was vigorously denounced by the order that he represented, but before taking any definite action they proposed to inquire into the question, and accordingly he was detailed to visit this city and ascertain the true state of affairs. Captain Thomas returned to Wheeling last night. After a conference with responsible parties he arrived at the conclusion that the reports that had been first heard were not in the least exaggerated. He also took with him a number of copies of the daily papers containing an account of the meetings of the board. The result of the investigation will be presented to the orders at once.

THEY DID READ.

As Usual, That Irresponsible Sheet Is Wrong.

A paper published in this city, states that the Bible has not been read by any of the teachers of late. The News Review has the best of authority for asserting that the reporter on said unreliable sheet is talking through his hat, as a member of the school board is authority in one instance, and a bright girl scholar is even as good authority, and she has been made happy of late by hearing the blessed book read by her teacher. Turn on the light, as there is none so blind as he who will not see. The actual vision of the newsgatherer of the said unreliable sheet, must be patterned after his moral vision—he loves darkness rather than light, and doth not desire to see aught of good.

NEW SIGNALS.

The Street Railway Company Will Soon Put Them On.

Superintendent Andrews has been hard at work lately preparing the new signal system that will be set up and put in operation as soon as the weather moderates. It was the intention to commence the work of placing them in position yesterday, but owing to the inclemency of the weather this was deferred. The system will be established with electric signals similar to those in use on the Beaver Valley and other electric lines. The object of this system is to prevent any possibility of a collision, that otherwise might occur. The signals will be placed at every switch, and will be operated by the motormen who, by simply pulling a lever, can immediately communicate with the next switch, so that the car coming will know whether or not the track is clear to the next switch. Besides facilitating time, the danger of a collision is entirely eliminated.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Views Expressed by the Candidates on the Bible Question.

A NEWS REVIEW reporter interviewed the various candidates for school board this morning, and got their views on the Bible question. E. A. Stevenson, O. C. Vodrey, B. H. Hodgson, Dr. W. T. Norris, Mrs. J. C. Allison and E. J. Owen are in favor of the Bible being read in the public schools by all the teachers, and will make their campaign with this understanding.

W. L. Smith: "Am opposed to the Bible as an opening exercise or text book. It can be used as a reference book."

Mrs. M. E. Calhoun said she didn't desire to be quoted. She must be for or against in this fight.

D. J. Nellis: "Am in favor of Bible reading as it has been for the past 20 years."

Col. John N. Taylor: "I am in favor of the Bible being in the schools, but not as a text book, and object to its compulsory use."

H. W. Smith: "Am in favor of the Bible in the schools, but with creed differences eliminated and in such shape equally compulsory with any other text book."

STOLE THE DINNER.

Someone Walks off With Trustee Beardmore's Dinner.

Joseph Beardmore, one of the trustees, when he went to work at Thompson's pottery yesterday, carefully wrapped his lunch and dinner in a paper and took it with him. Arriving at the plant he laid it down in a corner and went to work. Becoming hungry about 10 o'clock he happened to think of a piece of luscious current cake that was in that bundle and thought he would eat it, but when he went to the place he had left it the package was gone. Mr. Beardmore said he wouldn't have cared so much had the thief but left him a piece of cake, and he thinks it would have been nothing more than right to have returned the napkin.

TRADES COUNCIL

Met Last Night and Listened to Several Addresses.

Trades council met last night, but transacted no business, the evening being spent in listening to addresses by A. H. Clark and President William Ruhe. Mr. Clark's speech on the subject, "Labor," was an able effort, and was listened to with rapt attention by the audience present. He was followed by President William Ruhe, who spoke on the subject of "Immigration and Protective Tariff," in a logical and convincing manner. Mr. Clark then answered some of the questions put by Mr. Ruhe in his speech, and the meeting adjourned, after spending a pleasant as well as instructive evening.

RECEIVED A SHOCK.

A Bridge Employee Picked Up a Live Wire and Was Knocked Down.

Carl McMillan, of Vanport, and an employee of the bridge company, had a rather thrilling experience yesterday afternoon. The cable holding the iron bucket swung around and striking the electric light wire caused it to part. It fell to the ground. McMillan supposing the wire to be insulated rushed forward and picked it up; no sooner had he touched the live wire than he was sent spinning head over heels from the effects of the shock. He soon recovered and says that he does not wish to again go through the same experience.

Another Lie Nailed.

The rumor has been started that Evangelist Schiverea is to receive $500 for three weeks' work in East Liverpool. The devil must have employed one of his saloon employes to spread this false report. The evangelist receives the voluntary offerings given by the people during the week night services, while the collections on Sunday go to pay incidental expenses, rental of rink, etc.

T. O. Timmons left for Morgantown, W. Va., this morning.

THE PEOPLE ARE IN EARNEST

The Service of Song is Nightly Becoming More of an Attraction—Evangelist Schiverea's Heart Has Been Made Very Glad by Report of Glorious Work Being Accomplished.

The choir made melody last night, while awaiting the coming of Schiverea, Mrs. Ted Brooks presiding at the piano and Miss M. W. Jackman at the organ, while Stoddard's cornet added much to the musical program. At 8:30 Schiverea took charge, with the remark: "Yes, yes, that's very nice for a rehearsal; and now we'll do some singing," and the vast audience "smiled," at the expense of the choir, the members of which appreciated the joke fully and smiled just as happily as if they were not the victims. Then audience and choir made the old rink resound with pleadings that the Lord might be merciful to one and all of the inhabitants of East Liverpool. Short prayer service by Schiverea, pleading very earnestly for the Master's very best blessing. Reverend Whitehead read, as a scripture lesson, the parable of the foolish virgins.

Announcement was then made that there would be no pottery meeting on Thursday, at 12:30, but that a meeting will be held at the East Liverpool pottery on Friday, March 13, at 12:30, with the employees of Vodrey's pottery participating. Grand meeting on Sabbath morning in the rink at 9:30, closing in time for those who desire to go to church to do so. The aim will be, announced through Schiverea, to have a full baptism of the Holy Ghost, and revive church members and Christians, so that they may be better enabled and qualified to do the work of the Master among men.

Reverend O'Meara, rector of St. Stephen's church, then in prayer, asking blessings on audience and evangelist, and then Schiverea entered on his address, after Weedon rendered a solo, full of pathos and earnest invitation, entitled "He is just the same today," telling of Jesus ever seeking sinners.

"The nineteenth chapter of Luke. Jesus asking Zaccheus to make haste and come down from the tree. Yes, Jesus asked him to make haste, and he is saying the same tonight, men and women, of every condition and rank in life. There are two classes of men and women on earth; one class in favor of God and the other opposed to him. If you are not forgiven and redeemed, you are making haste to reach hell. No person here tonight, who was present last night, has now as good an opportunity for God's forgiveness and mercy as they had last night. The older we grow in sin, the less are our chances for heaven. The great majority of those who accept Jesus as their savior, come to him between the ages of 10 and 25 years. You say that there is no hurry; that you can have religion and forgiveness at any time. I tell you that this is a fallacy of the devil; every sin you commit only makes your heart so much harder—less susceptible to the pleadings of the divine spirit. There is a time when, thank God, you are master of yourself; but, oh the pity, there surely comes a time when sin is your absolute master, and you are but a poor slave. At the early age of 22 I abandoned sin and accepted Christ. I thought I could easily serve the Master; that there was no necessity of a battle on my part. I was on deadly, dangerous ground, and for four or five days and nights I had an awful battle with the sins which had so nearly conquered me and destroyed my immortal soul.

"Two warm comrades, professional men, loved one another very dearly. Finally one of them began to neglect his wife and children through the influence of the wine room. The other noted this and remonstrated with his comrade, urging him to be careful and advising him to forsake the wine cup before it was too late. The warned man was insulted and laughed to scorn the idea that he was not master of himself—that he was in any danger. What? He of strong brain and strong will power in danger from the wine cup; not he. His comrade then asked, as a personal favor, that he abstain from the use of wine for a single week, in order to test the matter. At first he demurred, but finally consented, and the test began. The first day was a struggle, but he made it all right. The next morning he wanted what is termed an eye opener, (should be termed an eye shutter) and he wanted it awful bad. The second day he could not eat and the second night he could

THE NEWS REVIEW.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF EAST LIVERPOOL, O.

PUBLISHED DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY BY
THE NEWS REVIEW COMPANY.
HARRY PALMER, THOS. W. MORRIS,
Business Manager.
[Entered as second class matter at the East
Liverpool, O., postoffice.]
VOLUME 11, NUMBER 231
EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, MARCH 12.

For President,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

Ohio declares for a protective tariff,
reciprocity and honest money. The
platform is built on the solid rock.

AND East Liverpool was remembered at Columbus, John N. Taylor
being numbered with the nominees
for the position of alternates at large
to the National convention. The Pittsburg Dispatch of this morning
says: "It can be said truthfully that
Taylor is the absolute choice of Mc-Kinley."

MCKINLEY.

And we still insist that the outlook is very rosy for McKinley as President of these United States. He should win on the first ballot. He is
the friend of the masses, of the bone,
muscle and sinew of the nation. He
is the advocate of home and home
industries. He wants prosperity and plenty for the workingmen of this great nation as his first grand desir-
atum, and will then be satisfied to
help foreign workmen.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN.

Republican women, lovers of the Bible in the public schools, rally at
the ballot box on March 21—Saturday,
March 21. It is your duty, and God
will hold you responsible for it. Prayers
are all right, and are a lever
which will move the world. In this case, ballots are a power which God
commands you to use. In the case of Lazarus, God commanded the dead
man's friends to "roll away the stone."
You must vote, Christian women, and
God will take charge of matters when
you fail, if you but do your duty.

PATRIOTIC ORDERS.

Every patriotic order of East Liver-
pool, every lover of our public school
system, every member of patriotic
orders, men and women, are in duty
bound to cast their ballots for the
candidates who advocate and support
the reading of the Bible in the schools
of East Liverpool, by the teachers, to the pupils. Let every organization
take immediate action against the common enemy. Candidates who are opposed to the Bible are bold and defiant, and will use all the machinery
in their hands to win out a victory.
Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Let no true man or woman, in favor of God's inspired word, fail to
cast a ballot in favor thereof.

THE BIBLE.

There are candidates and candidates. The NEWS REVIEW is absolutely and unqualifiedly in favor of
those candidates for positions on the school board who are in favor of the reading of the Bible, by the teachers
to the pupils, in the public schools of East Liverpool. The writer would
not support his own mother, wife,
father, brother, sister or dearest
friend for such a position on the
board, were they opposed to the reading of the blessed book of God, as above specified. The teachings of the Bible are the hope and salvation of this blessed, great nation. Asid from Christianity, no such grand book of
morals is known on earth, and this is
freely admitted by the greatest minds
and most brilliant intellects in existence. It teaches the children to obey their parents. It teaches parents to be loving and kind, in the right way, to children. It teaches
men and women to be honest and
true. It teaches men and women to love their neighbors. In a nutshell,
it ever and always advocates the right
and condemns the wrong. It is the educator of all educators. It is the book of books. It is God's inspired word, given to human kind for
their control and guidance, leading
humanity to happiness in time and eternity. And God will not be mocked. One man on the late school
board has arrogantly and insolently
said that the Bible shall not be read,
by the teachers to the pupils, in the opening of our city schools. It is the bounden duty of every Christian man
and woman in East Liverpool, living
in the ward from which that man
comes as a candidate for the school
board, to cast a ballot against him.
As we believe in God, we believe in
this statement, and God commands
that we shall do our duty in the
premises, and will hold us responsible
if we neglect that duty. See to it,
Christian men and women, that East
Liverpool declares that God's word
shall be read in the public schools.
With you rests the great responsibility.

NO CHANCE TO ELECT.

Kentucky Senatorial Deadlock
Will Outlive the Session.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM BLOODSHED

Armed Men About the Door to Prevent
Unseated Republican Senators From Entering the Joint Assembly—Democratic Representative Loses His Seat.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 12.—When
it became known outside the legislature
that the house had unseated Kauffmann,
the Democrat, and that the senate had
unseated the Republicans, James and Walton, the aspect looked so threatening that many of the great crowd that
thronged the corridors made a rush to get away. There was an unseemly rush
for the joint assembly door, which was
guarded by a large body of armed men.
At one time the explosive point was almost reached. That point would doubtless have been reached if the Republicans had attempted to force the
unseated senators into the joint assembly meeting. Kauffmann, the Democrat, unseated by the house was already in the hall. Senator James, one of the
unseated senators, got in by strategy.
This left one unseated Democrat and
one unseated Republican in the joint
assembly hall.

This made honors about even on that
score, and tended to promote peace.
There were revolvers waiting silent
but ready at the hall door, and had any one wanted trouble he could have
had it.

Within the hall of the joint assembly
matters were made to run more smoothly by the ruling of Speaker Worthing
that the clerk of each house should call
the roll for the vote of the house. Once
under way the joint assembly proceeded
to business in true parliamentary style.
The Republicans refused to vote, breaking a quorum. When it adjourned
every member of it went out into the air in a good humor. The breaking of the quorum indicates that this will be
the strategy of both parties through the
few days that remain of this session,
and that neither party will elect a senator.

The seating of Representative Dunlap
by the Republicans was against his will, as he had withdrawn from the contest.

AS A DEMOCRAT SEES IT.

Gov. Matthews Says Harrison Will Be the Republican Nominee.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 12.—Governor
Matthews, when asked as to the prob-
able Republican presidential nominee,
replied emphatically: "Harrison. I think that his friends are doing some
mighty good and effective work right
now. I should not be a bit surprised if the convention is stampeded for General
Harrison."

"Next to General Harrison I look
upon Senator Allison as the probable nominee. I do not regard Reed as at all in the race. McKinley's men are
overdoing their efforts, and I do not regard him as a most serious quality. Morton is not even a factor. He has been put up for the same purpose in New York that Quay has constituted himself
a factor to perform in Pennsylvania—that is simply to see that the state gets recognition and makes itself felt."

CLARKSON'S PREDICTION.

Says Allison Will Win—He Is Hobnob-
bing With Andrews.

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—Hon. James
S. Clarkson, ex-chairman of the Republican national committee, passed through here enroute to California. "The St. Louis Republican convention will name the next president of the United States,"
said Mr. Clarkson emphatically in answer to the query of a local paper.

"Who will be the nominee of the convention?" was asked.
"Allison," replied the Iowan. "Mc-Kinley will receive the most votes on the first ballot, but will never secure
sufficient to insure his nomination. Allison will be nominated on the last bal-
lot. Mark the prediction."

Mr. Clarkson met here Senator Andrews of Pennsylvania, the Quay leader.

Allison Iowa Republicans' Idol.

DES MOINES, March 12.—Congressman Deliver presided over the Republican state convention, which was from beginning to end an Allison demonstration. Declarations were made for sound money, protection and a vigorous
foreign policy, with Allison's name in
each resolution as the proper man to
enforce these policies as president.

For Morgan and Allen.

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—The state
executive committee of the American Bimetallist party of California has

KENRICK LAID TO REST.

125,000 People Viewed His Remains Lying in State.

posing ceremonies befitting his rank as
a prince in the Roman Catholic church, Archbishop Richard Kenrick has been laid to rest in the priests' lot in Calvary cemetery.

It is estimated that since the remains
lay in state during two and a half days,
at least 125,000 people passed through the cathedral to view them. Cardinal Gibbons assisted Archbishop Kenrick, who celebrated the mass. Archbishop Ryan
of Philadelphia preached the sermon.

The Postoffice Appropriation Passed.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The house
has passed the postoffice appropriation bill, which has been under consideration since last Friday. The feature of the debate was the attack on the "spy
system" in connection with letter carriers. The appropriation for these inspectors was cut off.

tertain United States Minister Taylor's

the history of New York.

badly wounded.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—As time passes and no news is received from the missing China steamer Rio de Janeiro alarm for the safety of the big Pacific steamer increases.

ENGLAND HAS NO CASE.

The London Chronicle Riddles the British
Venezuelan Blue Book.

LONDON, March 12.—The Chronicle
this morning has a second long article
following up its critical examination of
the contents of the Venezuelan blue book. The Chronicle contends that the very documents which are quoted to support the British case disprove the British claim based on the Dutch possessions and occupation in the eighteenth century.

It fears that the entire case is vitiated
by the assumption that roving descents
by the Dutch on the coast and inland
rivers for slave trade purposes constitute an effective occupation.

The Chronicle promises further dis-
closures tomorrow with relation to the
blue book, so serious as to need
Lord Salisbury's personal attention. It
will refer specially to the garbled and
inaccurate versions of the centuries
reports and other statements on pages
14 and 15 of the blue book.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the
parliamentary leader of the opposition,
in a political speech at Boscombe, said
the Venezuelan dispute was the gravest
difficulty which menaced England. He regretted that the blue book had not
been published in December, in place of Lord Salisbury's dispatches. No word
should escape his lips, however, to embarass the government in obtaining a peaceful and honorable settlement.

ENGLAND HAS NOT INTERFERED.

Made No Offer to Mediate Between Spain
and the United States.

LONDON, March 12.—It has been ascertained by Reuters Telegram company that there is no truth in the report circulated by The Correspondencia
of Madrid, that Great Britain is trying
to mediate between Spain and the United States in the Cuban question on
the basis of the recognition of the sovereign rights of Spain over Cuba, which
it was added, would be granted an
autonomous administration, the customs receipts being devoted to the repayment of the Cuban debt.

It is added that matters are not sufficiently advanced to render such action
possible on the part of Great Britain.

Nine Blown Up For Revenge.

West Africa, March 12.—The powder

THE NEWS REVIEW.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF EAST LIVERPOOL, O.

PUBLISHED DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY BY
THE NEWS REVIEW COMPANY.
HARRY PALMER, Editor.
THOS. W. MORRIS, Business Manager.
[Entered as second class matter at the East
Liverpool, O., postoffice.]

VOLUME 11, NUMBER 231
EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, MARCH 12.

For President,
WILLIAM MCKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

Ohio declares for a protective tariff,
reciprocity and honest money. The
platform is built on the solid rock.

AND East Liverpool was remembered at Columbus, John N. Taylor
being numbered with the nominees
for the position of alternates at large
to the National convention. The
Pittsburg Dispatch of this morning
says: "It can be said truthfully that
Taylor is the absolute choice of Mc-Kinley."

MCKINLEY.

And we still insist that the out-
look is very rosy for McKinley as President of these United States. He
should win on the first ballot. He is
the friend of the masses, of the bone,
muscle and sinew of the nation. He
is the advocate of home and home
industries. He wants prosperity and plenty for the workmen of this great nation as his first grand desirer-
atum, and will then be satisfied to
help foreign workmen.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN.

Republican women, lovers of the Bible in the public schools, rally at
the ballot box on March 21—Saturday,
March 21. It is your duty, and God
will hold you responsible for it. Prayers
are all right, and are a lever
which will move the world. In this
case, ballots are a power which God
commands you to use. In the case of Lazarus, God commanded the dead
man's friends to "roll away the stone."
You must vote, Christian women, and
God will take charge of matters when
you fail, if you but do your duty.

PATRIOTIC ORDERS.

Every patriotic order of East Liver-
pool, every lover of our public school
system, every member of patriotic
orders, men and women, are in duty
bound to cast their ballots for the
candidates who advocate and support
the reading of the Bible in the schools
of East Liverpool, by the teachers, and
the pupils. Let every organization
take immediate action against the
common enemy. Candidates who are opposed to the Bible are bold and defiant, and will use all the machinery
in their hands to win out a victory.
Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. Let no true man or woman, in favor of God's inspired word, fail to
cast a ballot in favor thereof.

THE BIBLE.

There are candidates and candidates. The NEWS REVIEW is absolutely and unqualifiedly in favor of
those candidates for positions on the
school board who are in favor of the
reading of the Bible, by the teachers
to the pupils, in the public schools of East Liverpool. The writer would
not support his own mother, wife,
father, brother, sister or dearest
friend for such a position on the
board, were they opposed to the read-
above specified. The teachings of the Bible are the hope and salvation of
this blessed, great nation. Asid from Christianity, no such grand book of
morals is known on earth, and this is
freely admitted by the greatest minds
and most brilliant intellects in existence. It teaches the children to obey their parents. It teaches the
parents to be loving and kind, in the right way, to children. It teaches
men and women to be honest and
true. It teaches men and women to
love their neighbors. In a nutshell,
it ever and always advocates the right
and condemns the wrong. It is the educator of all educators. It is the book of books. It is God's inspired word, given to human kind for
their control and guidance, leading
humanity to happiness in time and
eternity. And God will not be mocked. One man on the late school
board has arrogantly and insolently
said that the Bible shall not be read,
by the teachers to the pupils, in the opening of our city schools. It is the
bounden duty of every Christian man
and woman in East Liverpool, living
in the ward from which that man
comes as a candidate for the school
board, to cast a ballot against him.
As we believe in God, we believe in
this statement, and God commands
that we shall do our duty in the
premises, and will hold us responsible
if we neglect that duty. See to it,
Christian men and women, that East
Liverpool declares that God's word
shall be read in the public schools.
With you rests the great responsibility.

NO CHANCE TO ELECT.

Kentucky Senatorial Deadlock
Will Outlive the Session.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM BLOODSHED

Armed Men About the Door to Prevent
Unseated Republican Senators From
Entering the Joint Assembly—Democratic Representative Loses His Seat.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 12.—When
it became known outside the legislature
that the house had unseated Kauffman,
the Democrat, and that the senate had
unseated the Republicans, James and Walton, the aspect looked so threaten-
ing that many of the great crowd that
thronged the corridors made a rush to get away. There was an unseemly rush
for the joint assembly door, which was
guarded by a large body of armed men.
At one time the explosive point was
almost reached. That point would
doubtless have been reached if the Republicans had attempted to force the
unseated senators into the joint assembly meeting. Kauffman, the Democrat, unseated by the house was already
in the hall. Senator James, one of the
unseated senators, got in by strategy.
This left one unseated Democrat and
one unseated Republican in the joint
assembly hall.

This made honors about even on that
score, and tended to promote peace.
There were revolvers waiting silent
but ready at the hall door, and had any
one wanted trouble he could have
had it.

Within the hall of the joint assembly
matters were made to run more smoothly by the ruling of Speaker Worthing
that the clerk of each house should call
the roll for the vote of the house. Once
under way the joint assembly proceeded
to business in true parliamentary style.
The Republicans refused to vote, breaking a quorum. When it adjourned
every member of it went out into the
air in a good humor. The breaking of
the quorum indicates that this will be
the strategy of both parties through the
few days that remain of this session,
and that neither party will elect a sen-
ator.

The seating of Representative Dunlap by the Republicans was against his
will, as he had withdrawn from the
contest.

AS A DEMOCRAT SEES IT.

Gov. Matthews Says Harrison Will Be the Republican Nominee.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 12.—Governor
Matthews, when asked as to the prob-
able Republican presidential nominee,
replied emphatically: "Harrison. I
think that his friends are doing some
mighty good and effective work right
now. I should not be a bit surprised if the convention is stamped for General
Harrison."

"Next to General Harrison I look
upon Senator Allison as the probable
nominee. I do not regard Reed as at all in the race. McKinley's men are
overdoing their efforts, and I do not regard him as a most serious quantity. Morton is not even a factor. He has been put up for the same purpose in New York that Quay has constituted himself
a factor to perform in Pennsylvania—
that is simply to see that the state gets
recognition and makes itself felt."

CLARKSON'S PREDICTION.

Says Allison Will Win—He Is Hobnob-
bing With Andrews.

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—Hon. James
S. Clarkson, ex-chairman of the Republican national committee, passed through here enroute to California. "The St.
Louis Republican convention will name
the next president of the United States,"
said Mr. Clarkson emphatically in answer to the query of a local paper.

"Who will be the nominee of the convention?" was asked.
"Allison," replied the Iowan. "Mc-Kinley will receive the most votes on the first ballot, but will never secure
sufficient to insure his nomination. Allison will be nominated on the last bal-
lot. Mark the prediction."

Mr. Clarkson met here Senator Andrews of Pennsylvania, the Quay leader.

Allison Iowa Republicans' Idol.

DES MOINES, March 12.—Congressman Doliver presided over the Republican state convention, which was from
beginning to end an Allison demonstration. Declarations were made for
sound money, protection and a vigorous
foreign policy, with Allison's name in
each resolution as the proper man to
enforce these policies as president.

For Morgan and Allen.

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—The state
executive committee of the American Bimetallite party of California has

It is estimated that since the remains
lay in state during two and a half days,
at least 125,000 people passed through the cathedral to view them. Cardinal Gibbons assisted Archbishop Kenrick, who celebrated the mass. Archbishop Ryan
of Philadelphia preached the sermon.

spectors was cut off.

ENGLAND HAS NO CASE.

The London Chronicle Riddles the British
Venezuelan Blue Book.

LONDON, March 12.—The Chronicle
this morning has a second long article
following up its critical examination of
the contents of the Venezuelan blue
book. The Chronicle contends that the
very documents which are quoted to
support the British case disprove the British claim based on the Dutch pos-
sessions and occupation in the eight-
eenth century.

It fears that the entire case is vitiated
by the assumption that roving descents
by the Dutch on the coast and inland
rivers for slave trade purposes consti-
tute an effective occupation.

The Chronicle promises further dis-
closures tomorrow with relation to the
blue book, so serious as to need
Lord Salisbury's personal attention. It
will refer specially to the garbled and
inaccurate versions of the centuries
reports and other statements on pages
14 and 15 of the blue book.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the
parliamentary leader of the opposition,
in a political speech at Boscobel, said
the Venezuelan dispute was the gravest
difficulty which menaced England. He
regretted that the blue book had not
been published in December, in place of Lord Salisbury's dispatches. No word
should escape his lips, however, to embarrass the government in obtaining a
peaceful and honorable settlement.

ENGLAND HAS NOT INTERFERED.

Made No Offer to Mediate Between Spain
and the United States.

LONDON, March 12.—It has been ascertained by Reuter's Telegram company that there is no truth in the report circulated by The Correspondencia
of Madrid, that Great Britain is trying
to mediate between Spain and the United States in the Cuban question on
the basis of the recognition of the sovereign rights of Spain over Cuba, which
it was added, would be granted an
autonomous administration, the custom receipts being devoted to the re-
payment of the Cuban debt.

It is added that matters are not sufficiently advanced to render such action
possible on the part of Great Britain.

MINUTE TO THE END.

Wild Enthusiasm to the Last Moment at Columbus.

THE SEATED DELEGATES NAMED.

But the Leaders' Calculations Went Wrong on the State Ticket—The Platform a Hearty Endorsement of McKinley For the Presidential Nomination.

COLUMBUS, March 12.—Delegates-at-large—Governor Asa S. Bushnell, Senator-elect J. B. Foraker, Congressman Charles H. Grosvenor and Hon. Marcus A. Hanna.

Alternates—J. E. Lowes, Charles Fleischman, J. P. Green and J. N. Taylor.

Elector-at-large—I. F. Mack and Albert C. Douglas.

Secretary of state—Charles Kinney.

Supreme judge—Marshall J. Williams.

Food commissioner—Joseph E. Blackburn.

Member board of public works—Frank A. Hoffman.

This was the ticket named by the Republican state convention.

The two days' session was more of a McKinley rally than the usual party business assembly. It was held two or three months earlier than usual in order to proclaim to the country the sentiment of McKinley's state. Not since the endorsement of R. B. Hayes for the presidency at the Republican state convention in 1876, has there been such a harmonious meeting of representative Republicans in Ohio. When Senator Sherman was endorsed for president at the state conventions of 1880, 1884 and 1888, there were bitter contests and it required considerable effort in 1892 to prevent open opposition in the Ohio state convention to Harrison for a second term. At that time Charles Foster was secretary of the treasury and is credited with controlling the convention. While the slate was carried out for delegates-at-large and alternates to the St. Louis convention without a scratch or dissenting vote, it was broken on the state ticket.

In the senatorial contest of 1892, the Foraker men claimed that their favorite would have defeated Senator Sherman for re-election, but for the help given "the Sherman faction" by the McKinley state administration. At that time Charles Kinney was one of the most aggressive Sherman men, and has always been a most enthusiastic McKinley man. He was chief clerk in the office of the secretary of state, under Daniel J. Ryan from 1889 to 1893, and has occupied the same position ever since under Secretary of State S. M. Taylor. Kinney's only opponent for the nomination was E. W. Doty. It was claimed that the old faction lines were being drawn in the contest between Kinney and Doty. Accordingly a conference of leaders was held, attended by all the delegates-at-large and others, at which it was decided to bring out General A. T. W. Wolf, who had often been the champion of the state committee and had a great record as a harmonizer as well as a campaign manager.

General Wyckoff was secretary of state when R. B. Hayes was governor and was the manager of the Hayes interest at the Republican state convention in Cincinnati in 1876, when Hayes was nominated over Blaine, Conkling, Morton, Logan and others. Wyckoff was the pension agent for Ohio under Hayes. As Kinney and Doty had made the business it was the plan to give them both a good complimentary vote and have enough votes to go to Wyckoff to prevent a nomination on the first ballot and then nominate Wyckoff on the second ballot. But Kinney went in against the field and got one vote more than he needed with all the old wheel horses working for what they called "a bigger man."

Kinney is a young man and his friends appealed to the younger element to make a stand against "the daddies," as they called them. While all the men on the ticket are McKinley men, there was no special significance in the selection of any of them, except that of Kinney for the head of the ticket. It is understood that McKinley wrote, or dictated the tariff and financial planks and that the whole platform is as he wanted it. His managers are very jubilant over the result in Ohio districts, as well as at the state convention. The platform was as follows:

The Republicans of Ohio congratulate the people of the country upon the growth of Republican sentiment, as evidenced by the signal victories of the last three years, which assure a glorious national triumph in the coming election.

We denounce the Democratic administration as the most despicable and astute history of our country has ever known. It has not only disappointed the expectations of the country, but has justly forfeited the confidence and support of its own party.

We affirm our adherence to the principles of the Republican party as defined by the national convention in 1892.

We are faithfully wedded to the great principle of protection by every tie of party fealty and affection, and it is dearer to us now than ever before. It has more devoted supporters among the great masses of the American people, irrespective of party, than at any previous period in our national history. It is everywhere recognized and endorsed as the greatest, masterful, triumphant American principle—the key to our prosperity in business, the key to our safety in war.

We denounce the present tariff law as the sublimated product of Democratic ignorance and incompetency, bringing, as it has, to a prosperous and happy people, a period of unprecedented adversity and distress from which nothing but a return to the policy of protection can relieve it.

We denounce the free wool provision of the present tariff law as an unjust discrimination against an important industry and against a large part of our people, and demand such protection for sheep husbandry as will secure fair prices for American wool.

The Republican party stands for a reciprocity that reciprocates and which does not yield up to any country a single day's labor that belongs to the American workman. It stands for international agreements which get as much as they give, upon terms of mutual advantage.

It stands for a foreign policy dictated by and imbued with a spirit that is genuinely

American; for a policy that will revive the national traditions and restore the national spirit which carried us proudly through the earlier years of the century. It stands for such a policy with all foreign nations as will insure both to us and to them justice, good faith, dignity and honor. It stands for the Monroe doctrine as Monroe himself proclaimed it. It will whiten every sea with the sails of American vessels flying the American flag and that will protect that flag wherever it flows.

It stands for a fiscal policy opposed to debts and deficits in time of peace and favors the return of the government to a debt, by the policy any opposes the continuance of the debt-making policy. It is too plain for argument that the public credit and commercial interests of the country require the revenues of the government to be amply sufficient for the public expenditures at all times, without danger of deficit and to that end congress should without delay make due provision.

We contend for honest money; for a currency of gold, silver and paper, with which the public mind is familiar, and we pledge anew to the veterans of the republic a watchful care and recognition of their just claims upon a grateful people.

The people triumphantly elected General Bushnell to the governorship; the general assembly have enthusiastically endorsed the people's choice for United States senator, Governor Foraker, and congratulate the Republicans of Ohio that today has completed the fulfillment of all the pledges made by their state convention.

We honor the eminent sons of our state, whose splendid services, and high character have justified their presentation to the American people as candidates for the presidency, and we assure Republicans everywhere that they and ever the Republican hosts, Ohio will contribute her share to the swelling tide of victory in November.

The people of Ohio take satisfaction in the expressions coming from every section of our common country, of popular approval of their distinguished fellow citizen, William McKinley. The great advocate of protection, who has all his life stood for America, its factories, its farms, its fireside and its reward in the confidence and affection of the people, whose interests have been his constant care. The Republicans of Ohio pledge him anew the able, loyal and unswerving support of his state at the national convention, and instruct the delegates chosen to represent Ohio to redeem this pledge.

The door of the vault, weighing 800 pounds, was thrown 30 feet.

The vault contained $70,000 in cash and many valuable bonds and other securities. The greatest mystery is how the robbers escaped being blown to pieces, the wreck of the banking room was so complete.

ALSO COMPLIMENTS CLEVELAND.

Previously He Paused in His Speech Opposing the Cuban Resolutions to Sound a Eulogy on Senator Sherman. Opposed to Granting Belligerent Rights.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Cuban resolutions are still hanging fire in the senate, Senator Hoar, who is still blocking their passage, having talked on his resolution to postpone action until April 6, until it went to the calendar. Senator Sherman, however, has announced his intention to keep the conference report before the senate until some action is taken.

Mr. Hoar spoke of the entire absence of facts and information on the Cuban question. The committee on foreign relations had considered it and had brought in a resolution, without any report of facts.

Mr. Sherman interposed to protest that Mr. Hoar was not stating the case fairly, calling his attention to the official congressional correspondence from the state department, which was comprised in a volume of 250 pages.

Mr. Hoar responded somewhat testily that what he complained of was the fact that the committee on foreign relations had made no investigation. It was not able to report what was true and what was not.

Mr. Hoar warned senators that the adoption of the resolutions meant a denial of the rule of international law, which we insisted on so strongly during the rebellion and to which the United States committed itself through our ministers to all foreign courts, including Spain.

He read some of the instructions of Secretary Seward and quoted the words of President Wolsey of Yale college against granting the right of belligerency, to show that if granted belligerency, it would have to be withdrawn once the success of the revolution seemed impossible. "Will you," he asked, looking about the senate, "put the seal of your condemnation on the doctrine which Lincoln and Seward and later Grant stood by in two of the most important crises in our history?"

Then, returning to his personal reference to Mr. Sherman, who had temporarily left the chamber, Mr. Hoar added, referring to Mr. Sherman:

"He will go down in history as one of the great men of the day—along with Lincoln, Grant, Fish and Seward, and his own illustrious brother—men to whom God in his providence had given the task of maintaining the government, and I trust that if my friend (Sherman) has unguardedly placed himself in a position on this question, washing out as it were, with a sponge, that illustrious record of the past, he will pause in his course and will prefer to continue with those great characters with whom he has been associated."

This Cuban resolution had no binding effect, Mr. Hoar went on. It did not bind the president or the senate or the house or the people. The president was the only power capable of relieving ambassadors, making treaties and recognizing belligerents.

At this point Mr. Hoar created a stir by an unexpected eulogy of Secretary Olney. The senator led up to this by referring to the constant meddling of congress with foreign questions. He referred to the Venezuelan question, in which, however, the course of congress had been temperate. But if it had been found that the president was conducting negotiations with Great Britain on that subject, then it would have been well for the press and the public and the senate to let it alone and allow the negotiations to proceed through the usual channels of the state department.

Said Mr. Hoar: "Mr. Olney has got a very good hold in my opinion. I do not agree with him in politics, but he is a good, square, honest, clear-headed old fashioned Massachusetts Yankee and I am willing to trust him with the diplomacy of this government."

"They say that the president's message contained a menace of war with England. England does not seem to understand it. But supposing it did, he said it in the face of the civilized world, and he has said it in the right exercise of his authority and discharge of his duty as the chief executive of this republic, and to humiliate him for it, or to condemn him for it, is to humiliate and condemn America in the face of the nations of the world. There is not any danger of war with England. We do not mean to make war with her, and she does not mean to make war with us. When the president of the United States, discussing the question whether John Bull was crowding a little American state out of her rights, utters a phrase I cannot recall, I think we had better hold our peace if we do not like it and go on with the negotiations."

Mr. Hoar related how the first Napoleon was walking with a lady when a workman, bearing a heavy burden, was encountered. The haughty woman sought to have the workman step aside, but the emperor said, "Madam, respect the burden."

Applying this to the great Venezuela controversy, Mr. Hoar said he felt like saying to the critics of President Cleveland, "Respect the burden."

Favorable to the Hawaiian Cable.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The senate committee on foreign relations has resumed consideration of the bill providing for a telegraphic cable line between this country and Hawaii, but adjourned without taking action or arriving at any definite conclusion. It was made apparent that a majority of the committee are favorable to granting government aid.

See That Window of Shirt Waists

at The Crosser-Ogilvie Company's.

It will give you an idea of the stock they carry. No other house this side of Pittsburg shows such a line; in fact we doubt if any city store shows a better line.

This first invoice amounts to nearly one thousand dollars.

The cloak room is (comparatively speaking) full of shirt waists. It seems like a venture to put such a stock in an East Liverpool store, but the people of our city know a good thing when they see it. This fact was demonstrated last year in the shirt waist trade; the demand was greater than the supply. Not a garment was left at the end of the season. So every waist now shown is new and fresh. They are the same make sold last year . . . . .

The Justine

No other store in the city has them. The fit is perfect, the style is high class, the work and quality of material is better than the general run of madeup garments.

A little early to wear them just now, but they will keep. So drop in and look through the stock; and if you have a half dollar or a dollar, or a dollar and a half to spare, take one of the choice styles home with you. You get the cream now, for you have the entire stock to select from. While in the cloak room ask to see the line of

Ready-Made Skirts.

They come right in with the shirt waist trade. Made by the same manufacturer as the Justine waist. They are perfect in fit and style, and very much cheaper than you can have them made.

They are in serges, mohairs, brilliants and broadcords. Prices range from $2.98 to $12.

There is also a large line of wrappers on display, and we think for style and price they are better than ever shown before. Prices are from 75c to $2.75, just about the usual price charged for making. So you really save nearly the cost of material.

Money is still hard to get. You generally have to work for it. It is your duty to spend it where you get the best value for the hard earned dollar. Low priced goods are not always cheap. It requires quality to make good value, and good goods at low prices to make bargains. Try

GO IN THE CONSTITUTION.

Advocates and Antagonists of the Amendment Argue in Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Speeches have been listened to by the judiciary committee from large delegations of clergymen and others who advocate and antagonize the bill recently introduced by Representative Morse (Mass.) to place the name of God in the constitution of the United States.

The proceedings were begun with a prayer by Rev. T. P. Stevenson, of Philadelphia, of the Church of the Covenanters. Those who spoke for the bill were: H. H. George, Pittsburg, secretary of the National Reform association; Dr. J. V. Stockton, Mercer, Pa., moderator of the Presbyterian synod of Pennsylvania; Lewis D. Vail, an attorney from Philadelphia; President Hubbard of the American Peace society, Cleveland; Rev. W. J. Coleman, Reform Presbyterian, Allegheny City.

The speakers for the opposition were: Wm. A. Croft, Washington; Colonel S. P. Putnam, Boston, editor of The Truthseeker; Rev. J. L. Jones, a Unitarian clergyman, Chicago; F. B. Woodbury, secretary of the National Spiritualists; Rev. A. H. Lewis, Plainfield, N. J., a Seventh Day Baptist, and Levin Abraham, who spoke for the Hebrews.

The last half hour was consumed by a prayer by Rev. J. W. Coleman, Allegheny City, and Rev. David McAllister, Pittsburg. Many questions were asked these gentlemen by Messrs. Ray, New York; Burton, Ohio, and Lewis, Kentucky, most of which bore upon the point whether the proposed constitutional change would not conflict with constitutional prohibition of the establishment of religion by the state. Considerable feeling was manifested by the partisans on both sides of the question and hisses and cheers frequently interrupted the speakers.

CABLEGRAM FROM GEN. BOOTH.

He Denies He Was Trying to Anglize the American Army.

"New York, March 12.—A cable dispatch from General William Booth has been received at Salvation Army headquarters.

He speaks of his great sorrow over Ballington Booth's action, but says he has never allowed family affairs to interfere in his conduct of the army. He denies that he is trying to try to anglicize the army in the United States and says it is as much American as English. He ends as follows:

You will show no want of patience with those who have fallen beneath an almost unrelenting temptation and flattery. You will pray for them without ceasing. You will, by daily faithfulness, compel even your most bitter critics to see that you are seeking only the good of all men. You will allow no difficulty to check your advance. You will not fail your general. You will not fail your Lord. Let us remember the millions without God and devote ourselves anew to their salvation, and he will grant us our heart's desires and fulfill all our counsel.

The rebels tried to prevent this junction.

McKINLEY TO THE END.

Wild Enthusiasm to the Last Moment at Columbus.

THE SEATED DELEGATES NAMED.

But the Leaders' Calculations Went Wrong on the State Ticket—The Platform a Hearty Endorsement of McKinley For the Presidential Nomination.

COLUMBUS, March 12.—Delegates-at-large—Governor Asa S. Bushnell, Senator-elect J. B. Foraker, Congressman Charles H. Grosvenor and Hon. Marcus A. Hanna.

Alternates—J. E. Lowes, Charles Fleischman, J. P. Green and J. N. Taylor.

Electors-at-large—I. F. Mack and Albert C. Douglas.

Secretary of state—Charles Kinney. Supreme judge—Marshal J. Williams.

Food commissioner—Joseph E. Blackburn.

Member board of public works—Frank A. Hoffman.

This was the ticket named by the Republican state convention.

The two days' session was more of a McKinley rally than the usual party business assembly. It was held two or three months earlier than usual in order to proclaim to the country the sentiment of McKinley's state. Not since the endorsement of R. B. Hayes for the presidency at the Republican state convention in 1876, has there been such a harmonious meeting of representatives of the people of Ohio.

When Senator Sherman was endorsed for president at the state conventions of 1880, 1884 and 1888, there were bitter contests and it required considerable effort in 1892 to prevent open opposition in the Ohio state convention to Harrison for a second term. At that time Charles Foster was secretary of the treasury and is credited with controlling the convention.

While the slate was carried out for delegates-at-large and alternates to the St. Louis convention without a scratch or dissenting vote, it was broken on the state ticket.

Sherman and Foraker will sit in the senate together, but for several years the Republicans of Ohio have had what became known as "the Sherman faction" and "the Foraker faction."

In the senatorial contest of 1892, the Foraker men claimed that their favorite would have defeated Senator Sherman for re-election, but for the help given "the Sherman faction" by the McKinley state administration.

At that time Charles Kinney was one of the more aggressive Sherman men and has since been a most enthusiastic McKinley man. He was chief clerk in the office of the secretary of state, under Daniel J. Ryan from 1889 to 1893, and has occupied the same position ever since under Secretary of State S. M. Taylor.

Kinney's only opponent for the nomination was E. W. Doty. It was claimed that the old factional lines were being drawn in the contest between Kinney and Doty.

Accordingly a conference of leaders was held, attended by all the delegates-at-large and others at which it was decided to bring out General A. T. Wykoff, who had often been chairman of the state committee and had a great record as a harmonizer as well as a campaign manager.

General Wykoff was secretary of state when R. B. Hayes was governor and was the manager of the Hayes interest at the Republican state convention in Cincinnati in 1876, when Hayes was nominated over Blaine, Conkling, Morton, Logan and others.

Wykoff was the pension agent of Ohio under Hayes. As Kinney's Doty had made the canvass it was the plan to give them both a good complimentary vote and have enough votes go to Wykoff to prevent a nomination on the first ballot and then nominate Wykoff on the second ballot.

But Kinney went in against the field and got one vote more than he needed with all the old wheel horses working for what they called "a bigger man."

Kinney is a young man and his friends appealed to the younger element to make a stand against "the daddies," as they called them. While all the men on the ticket are McKinley men, there was no special significance in the selection of any of them, except that of Kinney for the head of the ticket.

It is understood that McKinley wrote, or dictated the tariff and financial planks and that the whole platform is as he wanted it. His managers are very jubilant over the result in Ohio districts, as well as at the state convention.

The platform was as follows: The Republicans of Ohio congratulate the people of the country upon the growth of Republican sentiment, as evidenced by the signal victories of the last three years, which assure a glorious national triumph in the coming election.

We denounce the Democratic administration as the most destructive and disastrous in the history of our country, have known it. It has not only disappointed the expectations of the country, but has justly forfeited the confidence and support of its own party.

We affirm our adherence to the principles of the Republican party as defined by the national convention in 1892.

We are faithfully wedded to the great principle of protection by every tie of party fealty and affection, and it is dearer to us now than ever before. It has more devoted supporters among the great masses of the American people, irrespective of party, than at any previous period in our national history. It is everywhere recognized and endorsed as the great, masterful, triumphant American principle—the key to our prosperity in business, the safest prop to the treasury of the United States, and the bulwark of our national independence and financial honor.

We denounce the present tariff law as the sublimated product of Democratic ignorance and incompetency, bringing, as it has, to a prospective and happy people, a period of unprecedented adversity and distress from which nothing but a return to the policy of protection can relieve it.

We denounce the free wool provision of the present tariff law as an unjust discrimination against an important industry and against a large part of our people, and demand such protection for sheep husbandry as will secure fair prices for American wool.

The Republican party stands for a reciprocity that reciprocates and which does not yield up to another country a single day's labor that belongs to the American workman. It stands for international agreements which get as much as they give, upon terms of mutual advantage and it stands for a foreign policy dictated by and imbued with a spirit that is genuinely

When the president of the United States, discussing the question whether John Bull was crowding a little American state out of her rights, utters a phrase I cannot recall, I think we had better hold our peace if we do not like it and go on with the negotiations."

Mr. Hoar related how the first Napoleon was walking with a lady when a workman, bearing a heavy burden, was encountered. The haughty woman sought to have the workman step aside, but the emperor said, "Madam, respect the burden."

Applying this to the great Venezuela controversy, Mr. Hoar said he felt like saying to the critics of President Cleveland, "Respect the burden."

Favorable to the Hawaiian Cable. WASHINGTON, March 12.—The senate committee on foreign relations has resumed consideration of the bill providing for a telegraphic cable line between this country and Hawaii, but adjourned without taking action or arriving at any definite conclusion. It was made apparent that a majority of the committee are favorable to granting government aid.

The Hatch Bill Killed. WASHINGTON, March 12.—The house committee on agriculture by a vote of 9 to 6 has decided to lay upon the table the anti-option (Hatch) bill. This practically kills the measure for this congress.

Condition of the Gold Reserve. WASHINGTON, March 12.—The treasury has lost $473,800 in gold coin and $25,000 in bars, which leaves the true amount of the reserve $135,869,001.

The snow on the street car tracks interfered somewhat with the progress of cars on the steep grades, and the salt car and street sweeper were called into requisition yesterday afternoon, the latter for the first time this winter. No accidents have occurred yet, although on some grades at times a little difficulty was encountered in holding cars under perfect control.

See That Window of Shirt Waists

at The Crosser-Ogilvie Company's.

I will give you an idea of the stock they carry. No other house this side of Pittsburg shows such a line; in fact we doubt if any city store shows a better line. This first invoice amounts to nearly one thousand dollars.

The cloak room is (comparatively speaking) full of shirt waists. It seems like a venture to put such a stock in an East Liverpool store, but the people of our city know a good thing when they see it. This fact was demonstrated last year in the shirt waist trade; the demand was greater than the supply. Not a garment was left at the end of the season. So every waist now shown is new and fresh. They are the same make sold last year . . . . .

The Justine

No other store in the city has them. The fit is perfect, the style is high class, the work and quality of material is better than the general run of madeup garments. A little early to wear them just now, but they will keep. So drop in and look through the stock; and if you have a half dollar or a dollar, or a dollar and a half to spare, take one of the choice styles home with you. You get the cream now, for you have the entire stock to select from. While in the cloak room ask to see the line of

Ready-Made Skirts.

They come right in with the shirt waist trade. Made by the same manufacturer as the Justine waist. They are perfect in fit and style, and very much cheaper than you can have them made. They are in serges, mohairs, brillantines and broadsided silks. Prices range from $2.98 to $12. There is also a large line of wrappers on display, and we think for style and price they are better than ever shown before. Prices are from 75c to $2.75, just about the usual price charged for making. So you really save nearly the cost of material.

Money is still hard to get. You generally have to work for it. It is your duty to spend it where you get the best value for the hard earned dollar. Low priced goods are not always cheap. It requires quality to make good value, and good goods at low prices to make bargains. Try

GOD IN THE CONSTITUTION.

Advocates and Antagonists of the Amendment Argue in Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Speeches have been listened to by the judiciary committee from large delegations of clergymen and others who advocate and antagonize the bill recently introduced by Representative Morse (Mass.) to place the name of God in the constitution of the United States.

The proceedings were begun with a prayer by Rev. T. P. Stevenson of Philadelphia of the Church of the Covenanters. Those who spoke for the bill were: H. H. George, Pittsburg, secretary of the National Reform association; Dr. J. V. Stockton, Mercer, Pa., moderator of the Presbyterian synod of Pennsylvania; Lewis D. Vail, an attorney from Philadelphia; President Hubbard of the American Peace society, Cleveland; Rev. W. J. Coleman, Reform Presbyterian, Allegheny City. The speakers for the opposition were: W. A. Croffutt, Washington; Colonel S. P. Putnam, Boston, editor of The Truthseeker; Rev. A. H. Jones, a Unitarian clergyman, Chicago; F. B. Woodbury, secretary of the National Spiritualists; Rev. A. H. Lewis, Plainfield, N. J., a Seventh Day Baptist, and Lewis Abraham, who spoke for the Hebrews.

The last half hour was consumed by Rev. J. W. Coleman, Allegheny City, and Rev. David McAllister, Pittsburg. Many questions were asked these gentlemen by Messrs. Ray, New York; Burton, Ohio, and Lewis, Kentucky, most of which bore upon the point whether the proposed constitutional change would not conflict with constitutional prohibition of the establishment of religion by the state. Considerable feeling was manifested by the partisans on both sides of the question and hisses and cheers frequently interrupted the speakers.

CABLEGRAM FROM GEN. BOOTH.

He Denies He Was Trying to Anglicize the American Army.

NEW YORK, March 12.—A cable dispatch from General William Booth has been received at Salvation Army headquarters.

He speaks of his great sorrow over Ballington Booth's action, but says he has never allowed family affairs to interfere in his conduct of the army. He denies that he is trying to try to anglicize the army in the United States and says it is as much American as English. He ends as follows:

You will show no want of patience with those who have fallen beneath an almost unparalleled temptation and flattery. You will pray for them without ceasing. You will, by daily faithfulness, compel even your most bitter critics to see that you are seeking only the good of all men. You will show no difficulty in checking your vanity. You will not fall your general. You will not fall your Lord. Let us remember the millions without God and devote ourselves anew to their salvation, and he will grant us our heart's desires and fulfill all our counsel.

PRETORIA, Transvaal, March 12.—The trial of the members of the reform committee of Johannesburg, charged with conspiring against the government of the South African republic, has been resumed.

Nicaraguan Rebels Again Whipped.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 12.—News has been received here of another signal success for the arms of the government against the Leon rebels at Metapa, a village near Matagalpa. The government forces have been working northward toward the Honduras frontier in order to form a junction with the troops which the republic of Honduras has offered to President Zelaya. The rebels tried to prevent this junction.

Chicago's City Treasury Elched.

CHICAGO, March 12.—Thousands of dollars have been filched from the city treasury through a clever scheme concocted by three tax sharks, a clerk in the comptroller's office and another in the special assessment bureau. The steal was accomplished by forging special assessment receipts. It is possible that $25,000 has been stolen.

THE LIGHT BURNING.

not sleep. The next day he was absolutely unfit for business and his friends had to be called in to his aid, while it was found necessary to give him medicines to help him through; he was in agony and the battle was an awful one. At the end of the week he was almost a wreck, crushed, broken, humiliated, and he cried out: "Oh, my God, I never even dreamed that the cursed stuff had obtained such a hold upon my life."

"Oh, men, 'make haste to come down'; don't dare to trifle; now, and only now, is your opportunity."

"Two men in Chicago said to me, when I went to them: 'Schivera, we like you and we believe in you; but we are not ready to take the step you urge. There is plenty of time; and in spite of pleadings and prayers, they passed out without asking for the Savior's pardon. They went to a saloon and became engaged in a four-handed game of cards. One of the number called for drinks before the game began, and as they stood at that accursed rum bar, a dispute occurred, and one of the men I had been urging to lead a new life had a drink driven into his stomach, letting out his entrails and he was literally cut to pieces, his whisky falling on one side of the bar and his corpse upon the other. His companion came to my meeting the next night and I asked him where his friend was. He made reply: 'Schivera, you will never see him again; he was murdered last night in a saloon, the victim of an assassin.' Men, come to Jesus while you may, for, just as sure as you live and breathe, so sure will the time come when you will have no desire for Christ. I know of men who were at one time tender hearted, and tears would come into their eyes at the relation of the story of God's wonderful love for fallen men. That day has passed; they failed to 'make haste to come down,' and they now laugh and joke about the most sacred features in connection with God's saving grace."

"Not long since, in New York, a murderer was about to give up his life on the gallows, and he was asked, by the sheriff if he had anything to say. He gave this awful answer: 'Yes, hurry up the job, will you? I've promised to drink with a man in hell.' He had failed to 'make haste to come down.'"

"I went into your potteries today, where I observed that it is necessary to put clay into the fire in order to accomplish the purpose desired. Men, God may yet see fit to put you into the fire of calamity, sorrow, trouble and deep woe, in order to bring you to a full realization of your true condition before high heaven."

"A bright, talented, keen-witted newspaper man said to me not long since: 'Schivera, if I could not get whisky in New York, and could get it by going to hell, then I'd go to hell.' Think of it, men; think of it. He had failed to 'make haste to come down.'"

"Bring the matter home. There was a man left this rink the other night and went home with the full intention of murdering his wife. Oh, the awful curse of rum."

"A gambler in one of the Boston meetings fell on his knees and cried out for mercy and God pardoned his sins. At the close of the meetings he came to me and said: 'Oh, Schivera, what a narrow escape I had; what a narrow escape I had.'"

"A man in Toronto, who has been a very bad and evil man, will give his testimony from this platform during these meetings. He went openly before the people, thank God, and said: 'I've lived an awful life of sin. I'm sorry for it, and I now want to live for Jesus.' He made an awfully narrow escape; but, blessed be the name of Jesus, he 'made haste to come down' in time to save his soul."

"I had men pointed out to me today on the streets of East Liverpool as vile libertines, following after and seeking the company of pure and good girls, with the one intention of ruining them, body and soul. Oh, that such devilish libertines could be sent to hell and the pure girl saved."

"At Phil Armour's great meat market in Chicago, they have cattle and sheep trained as leaders, for the purpose of leading their companions into the slaughter house. I noted one sleek and fat steer, pampered and well fed, curried like a horse, and he would pass in among his companions, get acquainted with them and then lead them where they could be butchered, and I said to myself: 'Oh, you mean, dirty, contemptible and nasty traitor, I'd like to take an axe and hit you on the head.' You're not creatures, calling themselves men, who play the part of nasty leaders, leading young men into infamous saloons, brothels and gambling halls—saloons of hell; awful dens of vice, depravity and devilish iniquity; you can smell them before you reach them; and young men are enticed there by these nasty, treacherous, mean and devilish leaders—leading men down to hell; oh, my God, the infamy of these saloons of East Liverpool. The keepers of them, if they want to avoid

hell, and save their souls, must 'make haste to come down.'

"An aged man came to my meetings and asked for mercy. I asked him what led him to come to Jesus. He said: 'I want pardon for my own sins, and I have a dear son whom I want saved. The father was blessed. The next night a grand looking young man came into the inquiry room, asking 'what shall I do to be saved?' It was father and son. I said to the father: 'You have been saved, what are you here for?' He nodded to his son. I went to the young fellow and asked him what brought him to Christ, and he answered: 'I've been watching father for years. He came home and told mother that Jesus had saved his soul at these meetings, and I come to seek the same Jesus.' Oh, fathers and mothers of loved sons and daughters, 'make haste to come down.' Jesus wants to sup with you."

"At Denver, a man cursed me bitterly and went home and cursed and swore before his little boy. The little fellow, almost a baby, asked the father to buy him a pair of shoes. The drunken, besotted father, refused, and then the little lad cursed the father with awful curses. The fellow sprang at the child to strike him; but the mother came between them and cried out: 'You shan't punish my child; you taught him to curse and profane the name of God, and you shan't punish him.' The father ran out into the street in a frenzy and finally brought up at the meetings where I was talking as I am here tonight, and God's arrow of conviction struck him and he cried out: 'Say, preacher, may I say a word?' And then he told his pitiful story of sin and of shame, and pleaded for our prayers and for God's forgiveness. Oh, men, he made a narrow escape."

"Men, when Jesus pardons us, he will be our friends always. If we do our part, he will do his. He will never go back on us, but will stand by us through thick and thin. He is a friend—a friend indeed. The man who does his duty, under God, cannot fail. He is sure to win, bless his holy name. Let me urge you to accept this friend of friends, and secure happiness in time and happiness in eternity."

The after meeting last night was unusually solemn and interesting, and great good was evidently accomplished. You have a cordial invitation to come to the rink tonight.

Celebrating an Anniversary.
Patrick McNicol, of the Standard pottery, was 39 years of age today, and his friends decided to observe the day with pomp and ceremony, and accordingly a good sized crowd was gathered and, together with Mr. McNicol, the jolly party secured a sled and started for the township line school house late this afternoon. There they will spend the evening in a manner that will long be remembered, in honor of the anniversary of Mr. McNicol's birthday.

The Play.
The Wilson Theater company presented the melodrama, 'The White Slave,' in a masterly manner at the Grand last night. Handsome scenery was introduced, and many new and pleasing specialties added to the enjoyment of the play. Tonight they will present the 'Two Orphans,' a play which is too well known to need comment, and as produced by this excellent company will undoubtedly draw a large house.

Two Deaths This Morning.
J. A. Ainsley, who resided near Calcutta, died at his home this morning from an attack of lung trouble. The interment will be in the United Presbyterian cemetery at Calcutta.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Mercer, of the West End, died this morning from general weakness. The day of the funeral has not yet been set. The interment will be in Spring Grove cemetery.

"Perhaps you would not think so, out a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. There are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one, get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Doctor Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but he will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. Twenty-five and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist."

Short of Ink.
A number of rooms in the central school building ran short of ink, and until a new supply arrives penmanship will have to be suspended.

Chamberlain's Cough remedy gives the best satisfaction of any cough medicine I handle, and as a seller leads all other preparations in this market. I recommend it because it is the best medicine I ever handled for coughs, cold and croup. A. W. BALDRIDGE, Millersville, Ill. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

TO PUT ON
needed flesh, no matter how you've lost it, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It works wonders. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it builds the flesh up to a safe and healthy standard—promptly, pleasantly and naturally. The weak, emaciated, thin, pale and puny are made strong, plump, round and rosy. Nothing so effective as a strength restorer and flesh maker is known to medical science; this puts on healthy flesh not the fat of cod liver oil and its filthy compounds. It rouses every organ of the body to activity, purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood so that the body feels refreshed and strengthened. If you are too thin, too weak, too nervous, it may be that the food assimilation is at fault. A certain amount of bile is necessary for the reception of the fat food in the blood. Too often the liver holds back this element which would help digestion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stimulates, tones up and invigorates the liver, nourishes the blood, and the muscles, stomach and nerves get the rich blood they require."

Spent Hundreds of Dollars with no Benefit.
M. J. COLEMAN, of St. Sergeant St. Roxbury, Mass., writes: "After suffering from dyspepsia and constipation with undigested food for at least six months, I am more than pleased to say that after using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' for one month, I am entirely cured, and from that day to this I do not know, thank God, what even a slight headache is. I paid a doctor on Tremont St., Boston, in one day (for his advice only) the sum of five dollars for medicine, and derived no benefit. I got more relief in one hour from your medicine than my stomach was concerned, than from all the other medicine I used. If any person who reads this is suffering from dyspepsia or constipation and will use your medicine as I have done, he will never regret it."

At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. ## A FAMOUS EPITAPH.

It Marks in Poughkeepsie the Grave of a Self Exiled Englishman.

There are some interesting epitaphs in the old graveyards in Poughkeepsie, but probably none of them has been so widely known and admired as that on the stone which marks the burial place of John Taylor in front of Christ church, on Academy street. This epitaph has been widely published on both sides of the ocean, it is said, and is believed to have been written by the English poet William Roscoe and sent over for his friend, Taylor's gravestone. Yet the stone lies neglected, and the last three lines of the epitaph have been broken off, probably during the work preceding the building of the new church. The epitaph was published in Benson J. Lossing's book on 'Vassar College and Its Founder,' and was greatly admired and frequently quoted by Matthew Vassar, Jr., as many of his friends remember. The inscription and epitaph on the stone are as follows:

In this spot was interred John Taylor, Attorney at Law the eldest son of Doctor John Taylor of Bolton le Moors, England, who died of the yellow fever Sept. 11th, 1805. Aged 36 years. Far from his kindred friends and native skies Here mouldering in the dust poor Taylor lies. Firm was his mind, and fraught with various lore And his mild heart was never cold before. He lov'd his country, lov'd that spot of earth Which gave a Hampden, Milton, Bradshaw birth. But when that country, dead to all but gain, Bow'd her base neck and hugg'd the oppressor's chain Loathing the abject scene he drooped and sigh'd. Cross'd the wild waves and here untimely died. Stranger what'er thy country creed or hue Go and like him the moral path pursue; Go, and for Freedom every peril brave And nobly scorn to be or hold a slave.

The last line is one that has been particularly admired and frequently quoted, and it is gone from the stone, which is broken off just after the fourth line from the end. That this stone should have been so mutilated seems little short of vandalism. John Taylor is said to have come to this country about the same time that the Vassar family came, shortly after the close of the American Revolution, and at a time when the English government was repressing all outspoken friends of reform in fear of a repetition in England of the French revolution. He was the uncle of Mr. Hudson Taylor, and the great-uncle of Mr. Robert E. Taylor. His father, Dr. John Taylor, was a very prominent man in England, with many influential friends, one of whom was the poet Roscoe, who wrote the epitaph, which reminds one very much of some of Goldsmith's best lines.—Poughkeepsie Eagle.

Dumas' Prediction.

The last time Sarah Bernhardt saw Alexandre Dumas she congratulated him on the fact that the thousandth performance of "La Dame aux Camelias" was soon to be given with proper ceremonies. "Ah, madam," said the dramatist, "I am very willing that the event should be celebrated, but on one condition—that I be not present." And he was not.

THE LIGHT BURNING.

not sleep. The next day he was absolutely unfit for business and his friends had to be called in to his aid, while it was found necessary to give him medicines to help him through; he was in agony and the battle was an awful one. At the end of the week he was almost a wreck, crushed, broken, humiliated, and he cried out: "Oh, my God, I never even dreamed that the cursed stuff had obtained such a hold upon my life."

"Oh, men, make haste to come down; don't dare to trifle; now, and only now, is your opportunity."

"Two men in Chicago said to me, when I went to them: 'Schiverea, we like you and we believe in you; but we are not ready to take the step you urge. There is plenty of time; and in spite of pleadings and prayers, they passed out without asking for the Savior's pardon. They went to a saloon and became engaged in a four-handed game of cards. One of the number called for drinks before the game began, and as they stood at that accursed rum bar, a dispute occurred, and one of the men I had been urging to lead a new life had a dirk driven into his stomach, letting out his entrails and he was literally cut to pieces, his whisky falling on one side of the bar and his corpse upon the other. His companion came to my meeting the next night and I asked him where his friend was. He made reply: 'Schiverea, you will never see him again; he was murdered last night in a saloon, the victim of an assassin.' Men, come to Jesus while you may, for just as sure as you live and breathe, so sure will the time come when you will have no desire for Christ. I know of men who were at one time tender hearted, and tears would come into their eyes at the relation of the story of God's wonderful love for fallen men. That day has passed; they failed to 'make haste to come down,' and they now laugh and joke about the most sacred features in connection with God's saving grace."

"Not long since, in New York, a murderer was about to give up his life on the gallows, and he was asked, by the sheriff if he had anything to say. He gave this awful answer: 'Yes, hurry up the job, will you? I've promised to drink with a man in hell.' He had failed to 'make haste to come down.'"

"I went into your potteries today, where I observed that it is necessary to put clay into the fire in order to accomplish the purpose desired. Men, God may yet see fit to put you into the fire of calamity, sorrow, trouble and deep woe, in order to bring you to a full realization of your true condition before high heaven."

"A bright, talented, keen-witted newspaper man said to me not long since: 'Schiverea, if I could not get whisky in New York, and could get it by going to hell, then I'd go to hell.' Think of it, men; think of it. He had failed to 'make haste to come down.'"

"Bring the matter home. There was a man left this rink the other night and went home with the full intention of murdering his wife. Oh, the awful curse of rum."

"A gambler in one of the Boston meetings fell on his knees and cried out for mercy and God pardoned his sins. At the close of the meetings he came to me and said: 'Oh, Schiverea, what a narrow escape I had; what a narrow escape I had.'"

"A man in Toronto, who has been a very bad and evil man, will give his testimony from this platform during these meetings. He went openly before the people, thank God, and said: 'I've lived an awful life of sin. I'm sorry for it, and I now want to live for Jesus.' He made an awfully narrow escape; but, blessed be the name of Jesus, he 'made haste to come down' in time to save his soul."

"I had men pointed out to me today on the streets of East Liverpool as vile libertines, following after and seeking the company of pure and good girls, with the one intention of ruining them, body and soul. Oh, that such devilish libertines could be sent to hell and the pure girl saved."

"At Phil Armour's great meat market in Chicago, they have cattle and sheep trained as leaders, for the purpose of leading their companions into the slaughter house. I noted one sleek and fat steer, pampered and well fed, curried like a horse, and he would pass in among his companions, get acquainted with them and then lead them where they could be butchered, and I said to myself: 'Oh, you mean, dirty, contemptible and nasty traitor, I'd like to take an axe and hit you on the head.' You've got creatures, calling themselves men, who play the part of nasty leaders, leading young men into infamous saloons, brothels and gambling halls—saloons of hell; awful dens of vice, depravity and devilish iniquity; you can smell them before you reach them; and young men are enticed there by these nasty, treacherous, mean and devilish leaders—leading men down to hell; oh, my God, the infamy of these saloons of East Liverpool. The keepers of them, if they want to avoid

"An aged man came to my meetings and asked for mercy. I asked him what led him to come to Jesus. He said: 'I want pardon for my own sins, and I have a dear son whom I want saved. The father was blessed. The next night a grand looking young man came into the inquiry room, asking 'what shall I do to be saved?' It was father and son. I said to the father: 'You have been saved, what are you here for?' He nodded to his son. I went to the young fellow and asked him what brought him to Christ, and he answered: 'I've been watching father for years. He came home and told mother that Jesus had saved his soul at these meetings, and I come to seek the same Jesus.' Oh, fathers and mothers of loved sons and daughters, 'make haste to come down.' Jesus wants to sup with you."

"At Denver, a man cursed me bitterly and went home and cursed and swore before his little boy. The little fellow, almost a baby, asked the father to buy him a pair of shoes. The drunken, besotted father, refused, and then the little lad cursed the father with awful curses. The fellow sprang at the child to strike him; but the mother came between them and cried out: 'You shan't punish my child; you taught him to curse and profane the name of God, and you shan't punish him?' The father ran out into the street in a frenzy and finally brought up at the meetings where I was talking as I am here tonight, and God's arrow of conviction struck him and he cried out: 'Say, preacher, may I say a word?' And then he told his pitiful story of sin and of shame, and pleaded for our prayers and for God's forgiveness. Oh, men, he made a narrow escape."

"Men, when Jesus pardons us, he will be our friends always. If we do our part, he will do his. He will never go back on us, but will stand by us through thick and thin. He is a friend—a friend indeed. The man who does his duty, under God, cannot fail. He is sure to win, bless his holy name. Let me urge you to accept this friend of friends, and secure happiness in time and happiness in eternity."

The after meeting last night was unusually solemn and interesting, and great good was evidently accomplished. You have a cordial invitation to come to the rink tonight."

Celebrating An Anniversary.

Patrick McNicol, of the Standard pottery, was 39 years of age today, and his friends decided to observe the day with pomp and ceremony, and accordingly a good sized crowd was gathered and, together with Mr. McNicol, the jolly party secured a sled and started for the township line school house late this afternoon. There they will spend the evening in a manner that will long be remembered, in honor of the anniversary of Mr. McNicol's birthday.

The Play.

The Wilson Theater company presented the melodrama, "The White Slave," in a masterly manner at the Grand last night. Handsome scenery was introduced, and many new and pleasing specialties added to the enjoyment of the play. Tonight they will present the "Two Orphans," a play which is too well known to need comment, and as produced by this excellent company will undoubtedly draw a large house.

Two Deaths This Morning.

J. A. Ainsley, who resided near Calcutta, died at his home this morning from an attack of lung trouble. The interment will be in the United Presbyterian cemetery at Calcutta.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Mercer, of the West End, died this morning from general weakness. The day of the funeral has not yet been set. The interment will be in Spring Grove cemetery.

"Perhaps you would not think so, out a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. There are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one, get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Doctor Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. Twenty-five and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

Short of Ink.

A number of rooms in the central school building ran short of ink, and until a new supply arrives penmanship will have to be suspended.

Chamberlain's Cough remedy gives the best satisfaction of any cough medicine I handle, and as a seller leads all other preparations in this market. I recommend it because it is the best medicine I ever handled for coughs, cold and croup. A. W. BALDRIDGE, Millersville, Ill. For sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

TO PUT ON

needed flesh, no matter how you've lost it. Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It works wonders. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it builds the flesh up to a safe and healthy standard—promptly, pleasantly and naturally. The weak, emaciated, thin, pale and puny are made strong, plump, round and rosy. Nothing so effective as a strength restorer and flesh maker is known to medical science; this puts on Healthy flesh not the fat of cod liver oil and its filthy compounds. It rouses every organ of the body to activity, purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood so that the body feels refreshed and strengthened. If you are too thin, too weak, too nervous, it may be that the food assimilation is at fault. A certain amount of bile is necessary for the reception of the fat foods in the blood. Too often the liver holds back this element which would help digestion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stimulates, tones up and invigorates the liver, nourishes the blood, and the muscles, stomach and nerves get the rich blood they require.

Spent Hundreds of Dollars with no Benefit.

M. J. COLEMAN of St. Sargent St. Roxbury, Mass. writes: "After suffering from dyspepsia and constipation with untold agony for at least 18 months, I am more than pleased to say that after using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and 'Pleasant Pellets' for one month, I was entirely cured, and from that day to this I do not know, thank God, what even a slight headache is. I paid a doctor on Tremont St., Boston, in one day (for his advice only) the sum of $150, and he told me to take medicine, and derived no M. J. COLEMAN, Esq. benefit. I got more relief in one hour from your medicines, as far as my stomach was concerned, than from all the other medicine I used. If any person who reads this is suffering from dyspepsia or constipation and will use your medicine as I have done, he will never regret it."

And his mild heart was never cold before. He lov'd his country, lov'd that spot of earth Which gave a Hampden, Milton, Bradshaw birth. But when that country, dead to all but gain, Bowed her base neck and hugged the oppressor's chain

Loathing the abject scene he drooped and sigh'd, Crossed the wild waves and here untimely died.

Stranger what'er thy country creed or hue Go and like him the moral path pursue; Go, and for Freedom every peril brave And nobly scorn to be or hold a slave.

The last line is one that has been particularly admired and frequently quoted, and it is gone from the stone, which is broken off just after the fourth line from the end. That this stone should have been so mutilated seems little short of vandalism. John Taylor is said to have come to this country about the same time that the Vassar family came, shortly after the close of the American Revolution, and at a time when the English government was repressing all outspoken friends of reform in fear of a repetition in England of the French revolution. He was the uncle of Mr. Hudson Taylor, and the greatniece of Mr. Robert E. Taylor. His father, Dr. John Taylor, was a very prominent man in England, with many influential friends, one of whom was the poet Roscoe, who wrote the epitaph, which reminds one very much of some of Goldsmith's best lines.—Poughkeepsie Eagle.

Dumas' Prediction.

The last time Sarah Bernhardt saw Alexandre Dumas she congratulated him on the fact that the thousandth performance of "La Dame aux Camelias" was soon to be given with proper ceremonies.

"Ah, madam," said the dramatist, "I am very willing that the event should be celebrated, but on one condition—that I be not present." And he was not.
